

Study of seed dressing effect with bio – agents and chemicals in chilli crop

R.V. KANSE, Y.T. JADHAV, D.T. JAGATAP AND D.S. THAWARE

International Journal of Plant Protection, Vol. 4 No. 1 (April, 2011) : 89-91

See end of the article for authors' affiliations

Correspondence to :

R.V. KANSE

Department of Plant
Pathology, Ratnai
College of Agriculture,
Akluj, SOLAPUR
(M.S.) INDIA

SUMMARY

The study reveled that the effect of bio-agent and chemical treatment increased shoot, root length as well as vigour index, also showing decreasing seedling mortality in chilli.

Kanse, R.V., Jadhav, Y.T., Jagatap, D.T. and Thaware, D.S. (2011). Study of seed dressing effect with bio – agents and chemicals in chilli crop. Internat. J. Pl. Protec., 4(1): 89-91.

Key words : Bio-agents, Seed
dressing,
Mortality, Vigour
index,
Germination

Received :

September, 2010

Accepted :

December, 2010