FACTORS HINDERING SOCIAL AND EMOTIONAL DEVELOPMENT OF LATE CHILDHOOD CHILDREN
NEELMA KUNWAR, VARSHA AND AMITA YADAV

ABSTRACT
The family plays perhaps the most dominant role in the individual’s socialization. The child finds much to learn in the behaviour of his family members, parents, relatives and friends. He imitates them in their mannerism, behaviour, clichés etc. He tries to avoid such activities which results in punishment or which are considered bad in the family. It is the family environment which forms his good habits and it is in the family that he acquires criminal tendencies.
